

Insurance

Whatever the strategy and approach required, Glaser Weil's team of Insurance lawyers works closely with our clients to obtain the most positive solution for every problem. The Firm's in-depth understanding of both the legal and commercial factors affecting the insurance industry lies at the heart of our ability to successfully represent a broad spectrum of both insurers and policyholders.

We view our clients as partners in every sense of the word as we provide comprehensive, highly focused service tailored to each matter — no matter how complex or unique. This is why the Insurance Department is divided into two proactive, adroit and efficient groups: Coverage and Litigation.

Our deeply ingrained multi-disciplinary style allows the lawyers in each group to work closely with each other, as well as their colleagues in the Firm's other departments. This collaborative approach ensures the most positive results for our clients. Our coverage group performs all requisite investigations and prepares opinion letters that commonly result in the resolution of claims. Our insurance litigators advise insurers and policyholders in all forms of real property, title, escrow, general liability, entertainment and professional liability related litigation. We also defend bad faith and other actions.

To resolve insurance issues and disputes wisely and in a cost-effective manner, our attorneys consider and implement a wide range of strategies and tactics and are adept at all means of pre-litigation settlement. However, should the matter escalate, our insurance clients can rely on our litigator's unmatched courtroom skills and solid track record that are synonymous with the Glaser Weil name.
