

Women Building Los Angeles

Glaser Weil established the "Women Building Los Angeles" (WBLA) affinity group to provide women working in land use and real estate development in the Los Angeles area with a forum to network and collaborate with peers.

The Firm's Government Group has hosted WBLA programs in both our Century City and Downtown Los Angeles offices to foster dialogue with women in the local development community. Recent programs have helped WBLA members gain valuable insights from prominent speakers, including the vice president of the Los Angeles City Planning Commission, and a senior vice president of development for a major national real estate company.
